KILLED FOR INSULTS TO PRETTY GIRLS

Daniel Boyle Dies from a Fractured Skull After Being Struck by Frederick Golden, Who Lived Next Door in Hicks Street, Brooklyn.

YOUNG WOMEN WERE SITTING ON STOOP.

Golden When First Arrested Was Silent and Was Released—Arrested Again He Confessed that He Had Struck Boyle.

Frederick Golden, of No. 522 Hicks street, Brooklyn, was rearrested to-day on a charge of homicide, after the man he had struck in a quarrel on Monday night died in the Long Island College Hospital from a fractured skull.

In court Golden declared that he had knocked down the man because he had been insulting some pretty girls who were sitting on the steps of their home that night.

The man who was assaulted and died was Daniel Boyle, thirty years old, of No. 514 Hicks street. He was found unconscious on the street Monday evening and died without being able to tell who had hit him or what had caused the blow in which he got his death blow.

Police arrested Golden, but he refused to say anything about the affair, and as the police could prove nothing against him, he was let go.

When Boyle died, Golden was rearrested, and taken to the Butler Street Police Court. There for the first time he admitted fighting with Boyle and told his story.

"This man Boyle," said Golden, "walked down the street that night and stopped in front of the house next to where I live, No. 520. A family named Slattery lives there. The three pretty daughters were sitting on the steps trying to keep cool when Boyle came along."

"Boyle began ogling them and when they made no reply to his advances he insulted them. The street that night in the house to escape him and I jumped down from the steps of my home and smashed him a good one in the jaw."

"Boyle dropped to the sidewalk and, as I afterward learned, fractured his skull by the fall."

The police say that they have investigated Golden's story, and that the young women of the Slattery household go a long way toward proving that the man's story is true.

CITY MARSHAL FOUND OLD WOMAN DYING.

Went to Serve Disposition Notice and Learned She Had No Food for Several Days.

At the age of sixty-four Mrs. Marilana Nicoletti is in St. Vincent's Hospital—homeless, friendless and perhaps dying. She was found unconscious from starvation to-day in a room at No. 185 Mott street by a city marshal who had gone to dispose of her.

Her husband died two years ago. After his death she had to support herself, and because of age and weakness she made poor shift of it. She was proud and refused the assistance offered her by charitable persons about Mulberry Bend. Of late she had been unable to pay her rent and notice of dispossession was served upon her.

The condition of the woman was reported to a policeman, who sent to St. Vincent's for an ambulance. The surgeon said she had eaten nothing for several days and would have been dead in a few more hours.

DIAMOND ROBBERY CHARGED TO CLERK.

Police Say Accused Gave Up Pawn-Tickets for Three Thousand Dollars' Worth of Gems.

BOSTON, July 8.—What the Boston police consider a most important arrest was made to-day in the capture of Frank Cormier, said to be the son of a prominent business man of Worcester. Cormier is charged specifically with the larceny of diamonds valued at $1,070 from his employer, Nathan Sallinger, a diamond merchant of this city, but it is alleged that the prisoner has stolen gems valued at $9,000 during the past few years.

When arrested Cormier, the police say, delivered to them pawn-tickets calling for diamonds valued at $3,000, all of which were subsequently recovered. It is further claimed that Cormier obtained goods valued at $1,000 from a local firm on the representation that his employer had sent him for them. The diamonds belonging to Mr. Sallinger were given by him to Mr. Cormier to sell on the lease system, and it is charged that worthless leaves were drawn up, thus covering up for a long time the irregularities.

BOY IN FURY TRIES TO KILL PLAYMATE

Little Six-Year-Old, Defeated in Sidewalk Tussle, Gets Shears and Stabs and Slashes His Victim, While He Resisted All Efforts to Tear Him Away.

VICTIM HAS MANY WOUNDS AND MAY NOT SURVIVE.

Child in Murderous Rage Jabbed at Fallen Comrade as He Was Carried Away—Arraigned in Court, but Age May Save Him from Punishment.

The youngest criminal ever arraigned before the bar of justice charged with a capital crime in this city is Antonio Francavilla, who at the age of six is in imminent danger of becoming a murderer. Armed with a pair of shears he sought out Antonio Christiano, a child of his own age, to-day and literally stabbed him full of holes. It took three strong adults to pull the blood-thirsty little Francavilla from his victim.

Christiano was rushed to St. Vincent's Hospital, where the surgeon spent three hours sewing up his wounds. He is a sturdy lad and this fact may save him, but the doctors say that if any complications set in he surely will die.

Young Francavilla lives at No. 217 Hester street. The home of the Christiano boy is at No. 204 Hester street. They were playmates and in each other's company for morning to night, day after day.

One of the little chaps found a big wooden box to-day, and hastened to a place in the gutter in Hester street where a leaky fire plug had made a puddle. Here the two boys played that the box was a boat and that they were navigators.

A dispute arose about the box. Christiano being taller and stronger than Francavilla succeeded in getting possession of it. Little Francavilla ran to his home, his heart full of murderous rage.

He got a pair of shears about five inches long from the drawer of a sewing-machine, and ran back to the street. Little Christiano was still playing with the box in the puddle by the leaky fire hydrant.

Francavilla was on him like a ash, stabbing, slashing, cutting with demoniac fury. Time after time he jabbed the sharp point of the shears into the back and sides of Christiano, who screamed with pain and terror. Finally the boy attacked fell down and Francavilla continued to stab, tearing long gashes in his victim's legs.

Three men had all they could do to handle little Francavilla, who laid about him vigorously with his weapon. He was sent to the Children's Hospital and later to the Children's Court before Judge McKean.

His parents swear that he is but six years old. They do not recognize the crime in a child under seven. Judge McKean adjourned court until Friday to get definite testimony about the lad's age.

UNDERTOOK TO CUT ELEPHANT'S CORNS.

Then the Menagerie Keeper Found a Wire Nail Deeply Imbedded in Beast's Foot.

Jewel, an elephant confined in the Central Park menagerie, had been limping for several days and Director Smith, of the menagerie, ordered Keepers Snyder and Shannon to try to find what troubled the animal.

Snyder decided that the elephant's corns, or rather calloused flesh, on the under part of the feet needed paring. The elephant was thrown on its side in its enclosure and tied down with ropes and the hard skin on the bottom of its feet cut away.

When the elephant was released and stood on its feet the keepers noticed that it still limped. The elephant was accordingly tied down again and Keeper Snyder cut some more of the flesh off the right hind foot of the animal, which was where the trouble seemed to be.

To his surprise the knife he was using struck a hard substance which proved to be the head of a wire nail. The head was nearly worn off and the keeper had considerable trouble in getting the nail out.

Jewel was then allowed to stand up, and she went on eating hay as if nothing unusual had occurred. The limp, it was noticed, had disappeared and the animal appeared to be as well as ever.

DROWNED WHILE BATHING.

Victim's Death Not Known Until His Body Was Washed Ashore.

The body of Edward Jeffreys, twenty-one years old, of Totenville, S. I., was washed ashore at the Terra Cotta Works, Totenville, this afternoon. Jeffreys and some companions were bathing at the dock last night and he swam out too far and was drowned. He was not missed by his companions and his death was not known until the body drifted ashore.

(Special to The Evening World.)
BRIGHTON RACE TRACK, July 8.—J. B. Haggin's Waterboy won the Brighton Handicap at Brighton this afternoon, carrying the heavy weight of 124 pounds and smashing the world's record of 2.03 3-4. Waterboy proved himself a good game race-horse in the Suburban Renewal, and the fact that he carried 124 pounds more to-day and ran a better race shows that there are few thoroughbreds in this country that are his equals.

Rosehampton, who took the lead at the far turn and made the running to the stretch, also performed very well. In junction, who was the medium of a heavy plunge, failed miserably and was among the tail-enders.

During the running of the race Articulate stumbled and threw Larson heavily, but the boy was not seriously hurt. Articulate went on and ran three miles before being caught.

The opening race of the afternoon was a clean victory for Tim Payne, a 12 to 1 chance, who beat Collector Jessup, a heavily favored favorite, very handsly.

The steeplechase was won by Lavator and the third by Homestead, ridden by Fuller, who had his first mount since his victory on Africander in the Suburban. An immense crowd of nearly 25,000 people saw Waterboy's victory.

An addition has been built to the grand stand since the last meeting. It has been extended down in front five rows, accommodating, perhaps, a thousand more people.

Lawyer Steinhart, with warrants for the arrest of book-makers, was expected at the track this afternoon, but he had not turned up at 5 o'clock.

SON-IN-LAW OF CITY OFFICIAL, WHO JEROME SAYS WAS WANTED, WAS ALLOWED TO ESCAPE.

Armed with five warrants secured by District-Attorney Jerome, Capt. Brennan, of the MacDougal street station, and a squad of his men raided an alleged pool-room at No. 45 Mercer street this afternoon.

The police arrested two men. After the raid Mr. Jerome declared that he had spent much time and money getting evidence against the place, which he declared was run by the son-in-law of a prominent city official. This man was not arrested and Mr. Jerome declines to tell his name.

The District-Attorney added that he expected to ask the Police Department for an explanation as to why the man most wanted was not caught.

Instead and Past. They held this order to the far turn, where Homestead moved up to Balkal and raced with him to the stretch. In the run home Homestead drew away and won easily by two lengths from Balkal, who lapsed long enough to beat Past a length and a half for the place. Belle of Troy, the favorite, ran a vapid and race.

Umpire—Emslie.

(Special to The Evening World.)
LEAGUE PARK, ST. LOUIS, July 8.—In blinding heat and before a couple of thousand fans bent on lynching John J. McGraw, the Giants endeavored this afternoon to win the second game from the Exposition City. Revolvers in plenty bulged from hip pockets, loaded canes were much in evidence and just back of the local players' bench, close to the bat bag, were gathered as fine a galaxy of "plus-guies" as ever thrived on Cherry Hill.

This town is noted for its baseball savagery. Umpires have nearly been killed, many a captain has fled to the clubhouse to save his life. McGraw had a narrow escape yesterday, or, as one kind friend put it to him:

"You will never know how near your hoodoo initials came to getting your belligerent lion head in clean fresh linen and nice soft bandages."

Last night the team was cautioned not to stroll around the city in certain parts of St. Louis, as the police would not answer for the safety of any man who was discovered to be a Giant.

McGraw well knows the ferocity of the crowds here, and so he with all the team spent the evening and this morning right in the hotel corridors.

Starting for the field their bus was assailed all along the route with sticks, stones and even a few shots were fired. Once at the field McGraw asked Stanley Robinson to have some special police, as the mob showed signs of making trouble, but Robinson, who is sore over what he terms his club's ill treatment in New York, paid no attention to the request.

"All right," said Mac, "I have given you fair warning. If we are attacked we'll put up a flash fight and somebody will get hurt."

"That's your look out," said Robinson, and began to argue about yesterday's fracas. Both Donovan and Williams, of St. Louis, admitted that it was only a talking matter, and that they would place in nearly every game, and that there was no ill feeling against McGraw, but the public had no such scruples. "It is a pity," says on daily in a newspaper column to a field denunciation of McGraw and John T. Brush, saying they deserve to be tarred and feathered. It does not take much to egg on a St. Louis crowd, and this afternoon the arena was filled with a mob that only waited for the slightest provocation to start something.

As McGinnity warmed up, boding defeat for the Cardinals, he was assailed by vicious remarks and cat calls. Bowerman was gaped for limping and every time McGraw showed his face off the bench it was a signal for uproar.

"Patsy" Donovan, on the contrary, was cheered to the echo. With the exception of Mr. Charles H. Wilson and "Buster" there was not a single rooter for the Giants and the game started with Mont Pelee smoking and ready to burst at any minute.

POPE LEO AGAIN SHOWS A LITTLE IMPROVEMENT

His Doctors Alarmed at His Continued Weakness—He Is Restless and Drowsy, Frequently Lapsing Into Slumber, and It Is Believed the End Will Come in One of These Spells.

CARDINAL GIBBONS LEAVES BALTIMORE FOR THE VATICAN.

Cardinal Serafino Vannutelli Is Said to Have Administered Absolution in Articulo Mortis, Which Indicates that Death May Come at Any Moment—New Doctors Suggested.

LATEST BULLETIN.

ROME, 8.50 P. M.
The remainder of the day has passed without any recurrence of fainting attacks. The pulse is less frequent, but a little more regular. The breathing is calm, and the general condition improved. (Signed) LAPPONI MAZZONI.

ROME July 8—7.15 P. M.—As evening approached the Pope's condition grew alarmingly worse and there is serious fear that he will pass away during the night. His Holiness is restless and drowsy, frequently falling asleep.

It is believed that the end will come during one of these fitful spells of slumber. The Pontiff's heart is not working properly. To-night's bulletin is anxiously awaited, as it is known that it will be issued after a thorough examination and that it will be considered to be a final verdict, and also because it will tell the whole truth as the result of criticisms of the treatment and the proposal to consult other doctors.

Mgr. Volponi, who was recently appointed Secretary of the Consistorial congregation, was stricken with syncope to-day in the Pope's ante-chamber. He fell to the floor, was carried to his apartment and Dr. Lapponi was hurriedly summoned from the Pope's bedside.

The Vatican has authorized the publication of another appeal to the populace of Rome, which reads: "Pray for the dying Pontiff."

This afternoon Dr. Mazzoni was suddenly called out of the sick chamber by Cardinal Rampolla, and a hurried whispered conversation ensued. This gave rise to all kinds of rumors, but it was soon explained that Cardinal Rampolla had taken upon himself the duty of acting as mouthpiece for some of the intimate friends and relatives of the Pope, who suggested the advisability of calling certain other doctors in consultation.

Dr. Mazzoni replied that he had not the least objection to such a consultation, but that the symptoms and course of the disease were so clear and well defined as to leave no doubt as to the diagnosis. He, therefore, was unable to see the necessity for the step proposed.

BALTIMORE, July 8.—Cardinal Gibbons left for New York to-day, over the Pennsylvania Railway, at 1.18 P. M., on his way to Rome.

ROME, July 8.—The following bulletin about the Pope's condition was issued at 10 A. M. to-day:

"The night passed tranquilly enough, although the Pontiff had no restorative sleep. The pulse was frequent, but regular. Breathing was not as free as last night. The condition of the Pope does not permit of a long examination, but it seems that the pneumonia tends to solve itself and that the pleuric liquid is not regathering. However, the general condition of the patient is not tranquilizing because of the state of depression which at intervals increases. "LAPPONI, "MAZZONI."

The Pontiff is extremely weak and even chloral seems to have lost its power to give the sufferer the relief of tranquil rest. Besides, what depresses the Pop. is the difficulty he is experiencing in breathing. At times he appears to be upon the point of strangulation, and then his breathing gradually becomes weaker until his heart apparently stops.
